

The Bielefeld Graduate School in History and Sociology (BGHS) fosters PhD candidates' individual career planning and awards, starting January, February or March 2022

up to three scholarships for practical projects for the duration of three months.

Description: Practical projects offer the opportunity to compare and further develop one's own competences, experience and goals with the requirements and circumstances of a potential professional field. To this end, doctoral candidates agree on a project with a non-university organisation that the doctoral candidate will independently design and carry out: for example, an event (workshop, expert discussion or exhibition, etc.) or an expertise (research, evaluation or recommendation for action, etc.) on a topic relevant to the respective organisation.

Requirements: Scholarships for practical projects are awarded to doctoral researchers at the BGHS from the fourth semester of their doctorate at the earliest. The working time for the practical project is 20 hours per week, so that researchers can continue working on their dissertation.

Our offer: Scholarships for practical projects are granted in the amount of 1,300 euros per month for a period of three months. The doctoral researchers' practical projects are flanked by BGHS workshops and collegial exchanges on the topic of 'non-university career'. Information on practical projects and their accompanying programme can be found on the BGHS website: <https://www.uni-bielefeld.de/einrichtungen/bghs/aktivitaeten-projekte/karriere/praxisprojekte/>

Applicants please send a curriculum vitae in table form and an exposé with a work and time schedule of their planned practical project to bghs@uni-bielefeld.de by 15 October. Applications from suitable severely disabled persons and persons with disabilities of equal status are expressly welcome.

Contact Person for practical projects at the BHGS:
Dr. Ulf Ortman: ulf.ortmann@uni-bielefeld.de.